

What we are looking for in our trustee vacancies

Introduction

Queenscourt is committed to maintaining a fair, transparent and consistent approach to recruiting the very best talents and experience to the board of trustees. The board oversees the strategic direction of the charity by balancing and responding to local need, expectation, demographic changes, developments in hospice care and changes in the economic environment.

This is an essential and on-going commitment as members complete their terms of office and our Council Development Plan exists to help us ensure a balanced composition on the Board with a breadth of up-to-date skills and expertise to lead the organisation.

Skills and Experience

At this point in time, we are seeking to secure up to 2 appointments and the areas where we need to strengthen the skills and experience on our board include:

- Clinical Governance – a trustee with extensive clinical experience, who will have a primary responsibility of supporting the organisation to strengthen the development of our clinical services and maintain a clinical governance perspective to ensure our services are well managed and administered, and resources are used appropriately
- Safeguarding - a trustee who has skills, experience and confidence in the area of safeguarding and will champion safeguarding throughout the organisation, supported by chair and with the recognition that safeguarding is the responsibility of all trustees and staff.

Experience of holding a trusteeship or non-executive director position might be an advantage but it is not essential.

Time Commitment

- Attending monthly board meetings
- Attending trustee planning days – up to two per year
- Attending sub-committees as necessary
- Completing mandatory training as directed for example, safeguarding and information governance

More information

The operation of the Board of Trustees at Queenscourt is regulated by Governance Arrangements based on the Memorandum & Articles of Association which is the organisation's constitution.

Trustees appointed to the Board will receive a full introduction and induction to the organisation.

If you have not acted as a trustee previously you may be interested in the guidance provided by the Charity Commission on their website, in particular 'The Essential Trustee'.

Queenscourt is an independent registered charity and company limited by guarantee. It is an independent healthcare provider regulated by the CQC and is also a member of Hospice UK.
